NURSE DIES IN FLAT; DOCTOR CONTINUES

Met Ten Years Ago.

Dr. Searing and Miss Keena, who had first known each other when the doctor nurse at Bellevue ten years ago, had been living together at various places on the lower West Side since about November 1, when the doctor's wife left him. The police investigation yesterday and last night by Capt. Deevy and detectives from Headquarters disclosed that for four months the doctor and the nurse had been drinking heavily and steadily drinking themselves into unconscious ness: that the girl's death had been caused by alcoholic poisoning and that Dr. Sear himself when removed to Bellevue was in a critical condition from alcoholism and chronic alcoholic poison-nds of the detectives that Miss Keena had come to a violent death. The bridge of her nose was broken. There was a cut and bruise over her right breast and her right wrist and elbow were blue from bruises. The autopsy showed, however, that none of these minor injuries, nor all of them together, would have been sufficient to kill her. The surgeons were convinced that death was to the long continued drinking bouts n which she took part with Dr. Searing

Miss Keena had been dead perhaps two days. That was the opinion of Dr oughlin of St. Vincent's Hospital and of other physicians who examined the body. In these forty-eight hours or so Searing had continued to drink some solution of a terrible problem. At 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning he called John Riordan, a hallboy, to the door of the back room of the apartment. whispered, while balancing himself un-

"John, my wife is dead. She's dead Get an undertaker, John, and I'll make t all right with you." He caught young Riordan by the coat

"This is all between you and me John." he muttered. "You help me and I'll take care of you."

Unable to Talk.

The boy notified the agents, and at 2 M. they asked for a policeman from the Mercer street station. The policeman saw the litter of empty bottles, the intoxicated man and the dead woman. He telephoned Police deadquarters and asked for an ambulance. When Capt. Deevy and his men appeared at 56 West Eleventh street they tried for hours to get comprehensible answers from Dr. Searing. It was impossible. Finally they put his clothes on, even to buttoning his collar, and then they sent him to Bellevue under arrest on suspicion of homicide. Miss Keena's body was sent homicide. Miss Keena's body was sent to Bellevue for an autopsy.

Dr. Searing was graduated from the Cornell Medical College with the class of 1902. In 1904 and for several years thereafter he was an interne at Bellevue. There he met Miss Keena. Subsequently Dr. Searing married Miss Helena A. Stuckle, who now lives at 30 The Crescent, a street in Montclair, with their six-year-old son. Last night it was said at her home that she had left Montclair temporarily. It was learned Montclair temporarily. It was learned that she had heard of the death of Miss Keena and of the arrest of her hus-band. Dr. Searing's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Searing, a widow, lives in Glen Ridge, N. J. MRS. LEONARD M. THOMAS IN THE HERALD:

'The Fear Market' is entirely true. It is as if a wall had been removed from a house in New York and one saw into the real life of one's own class, enacted as if one were really in the same room. It is vivid and charming; keenly nteresting and intensely human. It took rare courage to write such a play.
